TPC at Deere Run's 16th Judged Most Beautifully Brutal Golf Hole™

JOHNSTON, Iowa – November 25, 2008 – The 165-yard, par 3, sixteenth hole at The TPC at Deere Run, Silvis, Ill., has been selected as a winner of the John Deere Credit search for the 18 Most Beautifully Brutal Golf Holes™ in North America.

The TPC at Deere Run hole was chosen from entries throughout the U.S. and Canada (excluding Quebec) by a panel of judges that includes Jeff Babineau, editor of Golfweek; Pat Roberts, publisher of Golfdom; Joe Passov, architecture editor for Golf magazine; and Gary Van Sickle, golf editor for Sports Illustrated. The judges rated each entry on the basis of the hole's beauty as well as its difficulty.

Named Mother Earth, the course's signature hole requires a precise tee shot to the correct side of a ridge that runs through the middle of the green. Wayward shots to the left are lost to the Rock River. A massive bunker guarding the front and right side collects shots missed to the right.

"The length here isn't going to bother too many good players, but the effective target is reduced by half, thanks to the ridge in the green," Passov notes.

"The sixteenth hole at the TPC at Deere Run offers an outstanding example of how dedicated course owners, builders, architects and superintendents create and maintain holes that golfers talk about the entire year," says Steve Knutson, Director of golf leasing for John Deere Credit.

"John Deere Credit is proud to recognize these efforts and to provide golf courses throughout North America with equipment and lease products that help them keep courses beautiful and brutal," Knutson adds.
